1. The SED cadres have been alerted to expect some political surprises at the forthcoming four power conference in Berlin. Molotov will come out with not one but various plans destined to break the deadlock in Germany without delivering the East to Adenauer. He will propose in detail several measures for the creation of a number of all-German institutions, including a new statute for Berlin. A single German currency will also be proposed to facilitate East-West German trade.
2. These German proposals will be coupled with the draft of a European Charter, a veritable Monroe Doctrine for Europe. Molotov will declare the readiness of Moscow to guarantee the present European frontiers and the national integrity and security of all the existing European states. He also will offer the withdrawal of all the Soviet troops from European territory in case the US troops do the same.
3. In East Berlin there is much contentment about the trip of Daladier and Jacques Soustelle to Warsaw, because the SED cadres were informed that the details of a European compromise have been agreed upon between the Moscow and the French negotiators and that a new era of economic and political intercourse between East and West Europe is quite near.
